PREDICTIVE SUCCESS ADVANCES TO FINAL SELECTION FOR 2012 GOVERNOR GENERAL'S CANADIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Toronto, ON – On Friday, October 28, 2011, David Lahey, President and CEO of Predictive Success Corporation™, advanced to the final selection group for the 2012 Governor General's Canadian Leadership Conference. From an original 2,400 applicants, Predictive Success has advanced to the final 300.

David Lahey

The conference attracts Canada's top leaders that are likely to be, within the next decade, in positions of significant influence and leadership where they will be required to make major decisions affecting their organizations and communities. Applicants share an appreciation for the economic and social conditions impacting Canada while ranging in experience from the private and public sectors, to community and volunteer groups, to cultural organizations. The theme for the 2012 conference is "Leadership and Sustainable Communities" – ensuring long-term maintenance of well being at an environmental, economic, and social level across Canadian communities.

The final group of 300 applicants will be narrowed down to 230 who will ultimately attend the 2012 conference in June. The conference will provide members with the opportunity to freely and openly exchange views and experiences with peers from backgrounds vastly different than their own. Members will travel to a specific region of Canada and spend eight days exploring and examining issues across the country. Upon completion of their studies, members will reconvene in Ottawa and present their reports to the Governor General of Canada. Past conferences have proven effective in the development of Canada's top leaders and numerous communities.

Predictive Success' active role in the community and innovative leadership stance in business has propelled President David Lahey to the final selection process. The entire team is backing David as he anxiously awaits the final selection for the 2012 conference.
