

League of Rock Partners with Predictive Success to Provide a Powerful Learning Experience

Toronto, Canada (October 08, 2009) – League of Rock will partner with Predictive Success Corporation beginning in the Fall of 2009 to offer League of Rock's new "Leadership Rocks!" – A powerful leadership training program.

The two organizations will deliver this innovative and unique program to employees, management and boards of small and large businesses, corporations and educational institutions. Predictive Success consultants and licensees will be among the first to be introduced to this ground-breaking program.

Leadership Rocks! provides an intense, fun filled learning environment using music as a basis for developing and perfecting new leadership skills. Participants become effective leaders using barrier-breaking music-based learning combined with the proven and world renowned Predictive Index survey... a powerful combination of music-based education, consulting and assessment.

The Leadership Rocks! program builds superior leaders and ensures participants take control of their own success. Leaders will connect with their teams faster, increase the effectiveness of their communications, and provide direction that people will want to follow, improve their collaborative skills and increase their creative problem solving.

Programs are customized to a client's specific needs, skill levels, and logistical requirements.

Predictive Success is the Canadian Predictive Index Licensee and a Founders Club member of an international management consultancy that helps organizations to align their people with their business strategies through a combination of insight, education and coaching.

The League of Rock began in Toronto and has chapters in Vancouver, Chicago and New York. The League also produces Music-Based Team Building events and Corporate Retreats for organizations internationally.
